I. WHAT IS A COMPILATION ENGAGEMENT?

A. A First Approximation: In a compilation engagement the CPA obtains financial information from the client, "compiles" financial statements from the information (i.e. puts the client's financial information into the form of a financial statement, such as a balance sheet), and attaches the compiled statements to a short report from the CPA which says in substance that the CPA provides no opinion or assurance regarding the content of the financial statements. This first approximation, though correct as far as it goes, is nonetheless seriously misleading, because it omits all the aspects of the engagement which might make the CPA liable to client or third party. These further aspects of the engagement are discussed in detail in Sections III through VII, below.

B. Authoritative Definitions of "Compilation of a Financial Statement."

1. AICPA definition. "Compilation of financial statements. Presenting in the form of financial statements information that is the representation of management (owners) without undertaking to express any assurance on the statements." AR § 100.04.
2. Wisconsin Accounting Examining Board definition. "Compilation of a financial statement" means a presentation of information in the form of a financial statement that is the representation of any other person without the undertaking of the certified public accountant or public accountant to express any assurance on the statement." § Acy 1.302(1)(d).

C. The standard AICPA compilation report (AR § 100.17) consists primarily of a disclaimer of CPA responsibility for the assertions in the accompanying compiled financial statements:

I (we) have compiled the accompanying balance sheet of XYZ Company as of December 31, 19XX, and the related statements of income, retained earnings, and cash flows for the year then ended, in accordance with Statements on Standards for Accounting and Review Services issued by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.
